

SACC Autotest Discipline Co-ordinators Report November 2013

The 2013 SACC Autotest Challenge was held on 9 November, organised by SSCC.

The event was won by Willie Keaning in a Vauxhall Nova, the second time in the three years of running the event that Willie has been victorious.

While the number of entries was disappointing, the quality of competition was extremely high with each class being closely contended.

East Ayrshire CC are to be approached to host the 2014 event at Kames as competitors are keen to maintain the Challenge in the Autotest calendar.

SSCC and East Ayrshire have collaborated to run a winter series of Autotests with each club running two events. Details will be available on the SSCC website.

Clubs will again be encouraged to submit their proposed autotest dates to the SACC calendar manager to allow competitors who are willing to travel to enter their events. It is proposed that, in addition to the calendar being published on the SACC website, it will be circulated direct to Clubs who have submitted events for inclusion in the calendar, in an effort to stimulate more interest in events run by all clubs.

Both GMSC and SSCC are planning to organise different formats of autotesting, including Auto Solos, during 2014 in an effort to encourage new participants to the sport.
