Report to the SAMSC General Meeting, Tuesday 21 June 2022

Our 2022 programme is continuing with the webinar programme delivering two events each month, and in person sessions being held for Fire crews at Knockhill, and rally/cross country marshals for closed road rallying in Duns. Further Face to Face training is planned to include practical topics such as fire training, stage setup and practical timekeeping. The dates for these sessions are aligned with significant events in the Scottish Motorsport Calendar.

Unfortunately we have not been able to secure national collaboration with the consequence that other training providers appear to be running events on similar topics and dates as our published calendar. This would seem to be a lost opportunity for motorsport across the UK and we will be continuing to work towards a national collaboration, so that volunteers can get the maximum variety of modules, and flexibility of dates, for the best value for training budgets.

We continue to work towards greater standardisation of medical training for rescue, and are looking at options to provide more first on scene/first aid training to volunteers.

2022 Training Programme

- 12 x Monthly marshals webinars, covering modules from the Motorsport UK Marshals Grading Scheme
- 6 x bi-monthly marshals webinars, covering general interest topics (these will attract an attendance “signature”, but will not count for upgrading purposes)
- 6 x bi-monthly medical, rescue & recovery webinar, providing CPD for safety teams
- Face to face training:
 - April, Scottish Borders - Practical training to include Closed Road Rally Marshalling, Rally Radio, and Firefighting
 - TBC, north of Scotland - Practical training to include Marshalling at Speed Events and Firefighting
 - September, south of Scotland - Practical training to include Firefighting and First Aid
 - October, Mull - Rally Marshals Training

In addition we plan to deliver rescue medical training, emergency vehicle driver safety training, some night exercises for rescue & recovery units, and a rescue & medical conference in addition to the regular December Safety Services weekend.

Details of the calendar can be found on the SAMSC Training Portal at www.training.scottishmotorsportsclubs.co.uk
